SILENT AUCTION

Why should we donate, and what are we supporting?

The South Carolina Assisted Living Association (SCALA) organizes its Silent Auction to raise funds that support the association's meeting training objectives, which are mandated by the state for its members. These funds cover the costs of presenters and training expenses, allowing us to offer these trainings at a more affordable price. Notably, these funds play a crucial role in assisting small providers in acquiring their continuing education units (CEUs). In 2025, we plan to explore offering a scholarship for a member in need.

SCALA, a 501(c)(6) not-for-profit organization, supports healthcare professionals in South Carolina's assisted living and residential care facilities through training and workforce development initiatives. However, the Covid crisis has severely impacted the association, leading to the cancellation of income-generating events. These donations are crucial in sustaining our mission. SCALA offers a range of long-term care education programs, including assisted living administration, nursing, activity direction, social service designee, dining, and other staff roles. These comprehensive trainings equip caregivers with the necessary skills and knowledge to provide exceptional care.

The support and education they require to care for our state's most vulnerable population.
